c. Practical Information

- Time: Beijing is in the China Standard Time zone (GMT+8)
- Exchange rate: China uses the Yuan, which is equivalent to approximately $0.15 USD.
- Electricity/outlets: China frequently uses the type A and type I outlets. Common voltage is 220V/50HZ. Participants are advised to bring appropriate plug adapters if needed.
- Wi-Fi: All hotels offer free Wi-Fi connection, including meeting rooms. For instructions and ICT support, please contact the main reception desk of the respective hotel.

d. Health and Safety:

All participants are kindly requested to pay attention to personal health throughout the workshop. Participants are also reminded to practice good hygiene, including regular hand-washing with soap or alcohol-based hand sanitizers. If you feel unwell, please:

- Isolate yourself immediately and avoid close contact with others.
- Contact with IGSNRR volunteers without delay (see Contacts section).
- Await further instruction from local health authorities or works of medical support.

Your health and safety are our top priority.

e. Meals and Catering:

- Breakfast is included daily at the hotel.
- Lunch will be provided to all participants from 7-13 September.
- Welcome Dinner on 7 Sep 2026, from 18:30 hrs.

Notes: Please inform the organizing team in advance if you have any dietary restrictions or food allergies.

f. Security Briefing

All guests will be protected by Chinese law during their stay in China and are expected to observe Chinese laws and customs. Please keep your passport, return ticket, and other valuables in a safe place.

In case of danger or emergency during your stay in China, please contact the Chinese management or call the emergency number directly:

- | | |
|----------------------|-------------------------|
| • Bandit police: 110 | • Traffic Accident: 122 |
| • Fire Alarm: 119 | • First Aid Centre: 120 |

g. Useful Information

For your convenience while travelling in China:

- WeChat is commonly used for communication and networking.
- Alipay and WeChat Pay are popular mobile payment methods. However, participants are also advised to carry some cash (RMB) for small purchases or in case of technical issues.
- Credit cards (Visa/MasterCard) are accepted in major hotels and some shops.

h. Airport Transfers

Clothing Guidance

- Temperatures here are much lower than Beijing, especially on rainy days. Warmth and waterproofing are your top priorities. Rainy days (Sep 9–10): Wear a waterproof, windproof hardshell jacket with a fleece or light down layer underneath. Waterproof hiking pants and non-slip waterproof shoes are a must for mountain trails. Pack a warm hat and gloves for temperatures near 40°F.
- Sunny days (Sep 11 – 12): Daytime hiking is fine with a long-sleeve shirt + light jacket. Temperatures drop sharply after sunset, so keep a thick coat handy for mornings and evenings. Don't forget sunscreen and sunglasses – UV rays are strong at high altitude.

c. September 12-14, 2026: Zhangjiakou, Hebei

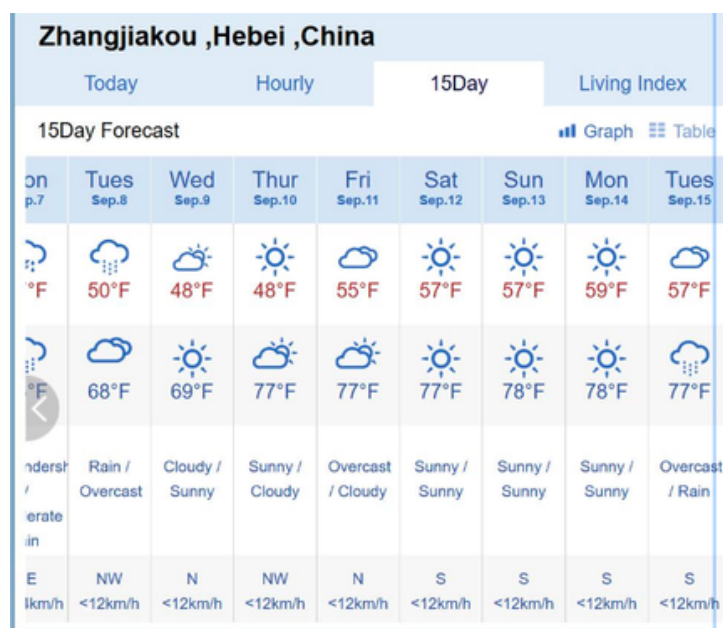

Weather

Zhangjiakou will be sunny, dry and pleasant during your stay.

- Sep 12 (Saturday): Sunny all day. 57°F – 77°F (≈14°C – 25°C), light south wind
- Sep 13 (Sunday): Sunny all day. 57°F – 78°F (≈14°C – 26°C), light south wind
- Sep 14 (Monday): Sunny all day. 59°F – 78°F (≈15°C – 26°C), light south wind

Clothing Guidance

- Comfortable autumn weather, great for outdoor activities.
- Daytime: Short-sleeve or long-sleeve T-shirts, casual shirts and light trousers all work well.
- Morning & evening: Add a thin hoodie, sweater or light jacket when it cools down.
- Bring sunscreen, a baseball cap and sunglasses – sunny days mean strong sunlight.

8. Expenses Covered by Participants and Delegates

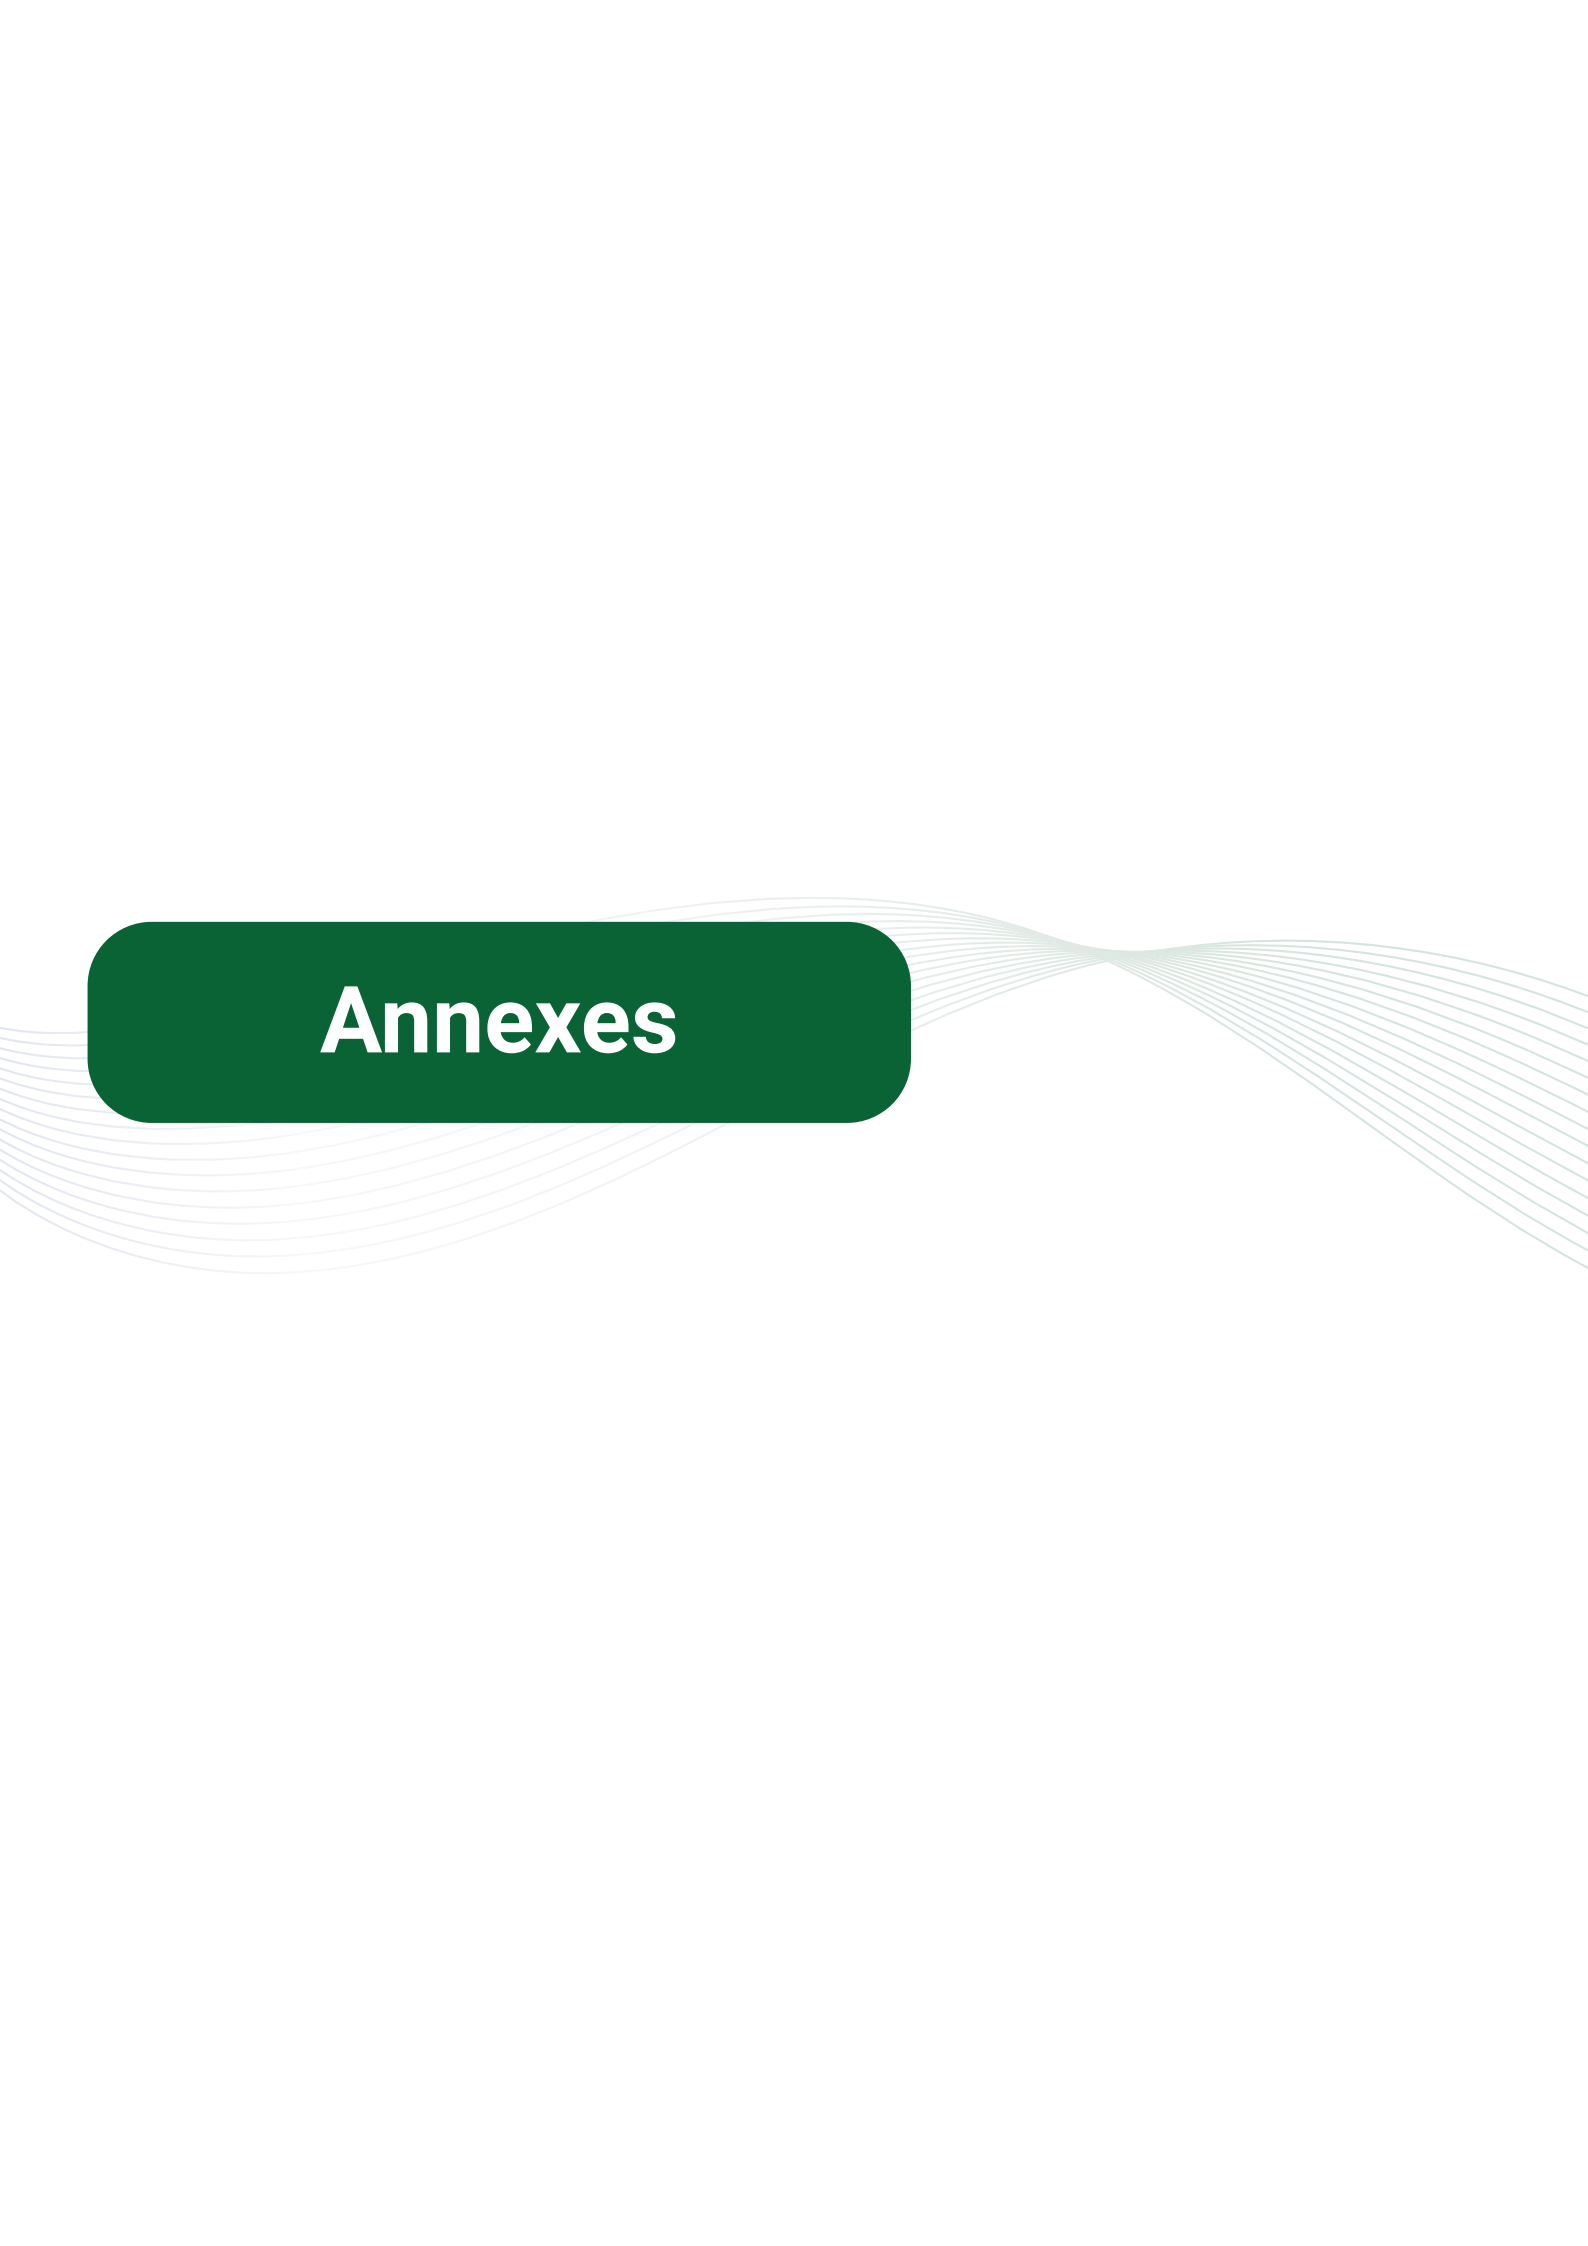

The participants and delegates are responsible for covering the following expenses:

- All incidental expenses in the home country including medical examination and others as well as travel to/from the airport in the home country;
- Personal and medical expenses throughout meetings;
- Loss or damage of personal property of delegates; and
- Excess baggage fee

9. Contacts

For any queries and emergencies during the workshop, please contact IGSNRR-CAS officers below:

Name	Mobile	E-mail
Ms. Limin Li	18611545856	lilimin@igsnrr.ac.cn
Mr Gu Haoyang	18600472823
